The grade of the books is intermediate between the so-called primers and the larger works professing to present quite detailed views of the respective subjects. Therefore, occasionally a volume is given to each of the main departments into which a subject naturally falls for instance, a volume to the Zoology of the vertebrates, and one to that of the invertebrates. While this arrangement supplies a compendious treatment for those who wish, it will also sometimes enable the reader interested in only a portion of the field covered by a science, to study the part he is interested in, without getting a book covering the whole.
