Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Republic of Esthonia and Private Property A new state has arisen from the turmoil of war and revolution. The forces to which it owes its birth were the people s desire for national self-determination and the interest with which the victors in the World War promoted the formation of border states. Once created, the new state must defend its existence. To do this, it is not enough to have the protection of powerful friends, but the development of the inner life of the state itself must be such as to preserve its vigor and vitality. The inner life of the young republic of Esthonia shows great diversity: from racial differences, from conflicting party interests, from economic calamities and struggles spring problems that are not easily solved. One fact, however, stands out with marked impressiveness from the multitude of questions - the attitude which the new state affects toward the historical rights of ownership. The sense of ownership is intensified in the measure in which civilization progresses, civilization which develops ever new relations between man and object. Law steps in and, with paternal care, builds a protective wall around possession, transforming it into private property. The individual has mastery over the object, but is, in turn, himself controlled to a certain extent by the object. This interrelation becomes all the more intimate, as the individual comes to regard his inanimate surroundings as his personal sphere of life. Nowhere is this more the case than where a man owns real estate. Man becomes attached to the piece of soil he owns, the latter becomes an integral part of his personal being, and in this sense he...
